

4-2-5 Scenario Cards Worksheet

Print this page and cut out the scenarios to distribute. Have kids pair up to discuss each scenario. Share responses.

The school principal tells you to pour a cup of sugar into the pitcher of water that your teacher uses for the class snack. He says it will be funny. You know there is a kid with Type 1 diabetes in the class who needs to be careful with sugar intake. What do you do?	Your beloved soccer coach tells you to do an aggressive slide tackle against the other team's best player the next chance that you get. It is the championship game, and your coach wants you to injure the other player to help your team win, even if you draw a foul. What do you do?
You are at a clothing shop with a group of friends. The most popular kid tells you to take an expensive hat and put it in your bag. The store owner is at the other end of the shop. She has always been nice to you. What do you do?	The teacher hands you an answer key and asks you to help her by grading the class spelling quizzes. The teacher tells you to give 10 points of extra credit to the kid whose dad is the mayor but not to anyone else. What do you do?
You are at a dance competition. Your mom tells you to squeeze superglue into the tap shoes of one of your top competitors. The winner of the competition gets a cash prize, and your mom says you need the money to pay for dance classes. What do you do?	You are having a sleepover at a friend's house. Your friend's older brother tells you where his mom is keeping the candy she bought for Halloween, which is the next day. He orders you to go get all the candy and bring it to him. What do you do?
You have a job walking dogs. While you are working, you run into a group of popular kids you know. They tell you to open a bag of dog poop and throw it on the front steps of a neighbor that they don't like. What do you do?	You are on a field trip. You just finished lunch and it's time to get back on the bus. The teacher in charge tells you to just leave your trash on the table and let the next group deal with it, because you are running late. What do you do?